

Procurement Act 2023 – New Procurement Regulations

Information for Suppliers

What is Changing?

A new set of procurement regulations are being introduced to replace those currently in place. The new regulations will be known as the ‘Procurement Act 2023’. It is envisaged that the new Regulations will apply from around October 2024, although this is still to be confirmed. The new Regulations will change how public procurement is carried out to improve the way supplies, services and works are procured for the public sector.

There are 3 Knowledge Drops for Suppliers and 3 Knowledge Drops for SME's/VCSE's covering a variety of topics. Topics covered include the new Central Digital Platform, Early Market Engagement, changes to procurement procedures, new Open Frameworks and Dynamic Markets, commitments around prompt supplier payment and the Act's transparency ambition and notice publication requirements, amongst other areas.

The new 'Central Digital Platform'

This will be used by public-sector bodies to publish details of new procurement opportunities. This has not yet been introduced, but it is intended that this will be accessed via the 'Find a Tender' website on GOV.UK.

It will be a single place for suppliers to register and upload key business information typically asked by Wigan Council and other public-sector bodies. Features will include reduced duplication and resources used to tender, and the ability to set up custom searches and receive alerts. It will be free to access. Suppliers will need to keep their details up to date. The Central Digital Platform will be where Wigan Council (and other public sector bodies) publish the range of notices relating to a tender/contract. Please note that Wigan Council will still use The Chest procurement portal to advertise its notices, receive bids from suppliers and manage its procurement activities; the Central Digital Platform will be an additional website where notices will also be published.

How Can Suppliers Prepare for the new Regulations?
